

Enthusiasm

Describe in two sentences, in simple English:

What sparks your enthusiasm for your research?

Which part of your research do you like best?

What is your special contribution to the research?

Which important result for society do you expect?

Which important scientific result do you expect?

How do you look upon your research, which metaphor could you use?

What would be a good headline in a newspaper article on your research?